The Latest For

Fall Business.

The J. B. Williams Co., Marble and Granite Dealers of 60 E. Main St., Frostburg, Md., and 90 North Centre St., Cumberland, Md., are one of the largest dealers in the country, doing business in seven states. They are offering the very latest designs in Monuments and Headstones for this fall's erection. They have two Yards, and buy their material in large quantities for cash and undersell their competitors. Mr. George Mauzy, Monterey, Va., is their agent who can give the very lowest prices, and orders entrusted to him will receive prompt and careful attention. While in Cumberland or Frostburg an invitation is extended to all to visit their yards, and see the finest display of finished Monuments in the State. J. B. Williams Co.

Virginia. In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Highland County in vacation, the 18th day of August, 1913.

J. Lunsford

vs. I. B. Bussard

Order of publication. The object of the above styled suit is to subject the interest of the defendant in a tract of land containing.....acres, more or less, lying in the county of Highland granted by the Commonwealth to A. W. Bussard and J. A. Bussard to the payment of a debt due the plaintiff, the interest of the defendant having been derived by descent from J. A. Bussard, deceased. And it appearing by affidavit filed according to law that the above named defendant is a non-resident of this state, it is therefore ordered that I. B. Bussard do appear within 15 days after due publication of this order in the Clerk's Office of our said court and do what is necessary to protect his interests. And it is further ordered that this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Highland Recorder, a newspaper published in the county of Highland in the state of Virginia.

Highland Live Stock Show

Fourth Effort a Success

The 1913 exhibition of the H. L. S. A. is now history, and, like the previous efforts, is regarded as a success.

Weather conditions were favorable, and the attendance fully up to expectations. That of the first day was estimated at 1,500; second day close 3,000, and last approximately same as first.

There was but little real disorder only two arrests being made.

Better provision was made this year to feed and shelter visitors, and it is safe to assume that the inner man was amply satisfied.

It is needless to say that the Recorder "went to the show." It is a great big time that comes but once a year in the county. The issue of the Recorder is a day late and the local news meager.

Next week a list of awards and prize-winners will be given.

NOTICE FOR A RESURVEY

To H. B. Hanger, Marguerite M. Hanger, and other adjoining landowners:

You are hereby notified that on the 12th day of October, 1913, I shall make application by petition to the Circuit Court of Highland County, at the court house thereof, at the third day of the October term of said court, for an order for a resurvey of my lands, lying on Middle mountain and on the headwaters of Laurel Fork, in said county, consisting of seven different tracts, for the purpose of rectifying uncertainties in the courses of said lands and including the several tracts in one grant.

Given under my hand this 10th day of September, 1913.

FROM THE LAND OF NEZ PERCES.

(BY MISS LULA S. WALLACE)

We went outside and sat for over two hours waiting for the dance and parade. Just before we had to go an Indian rode out from behind his tent in full regalia. His face was painted yellow, with red and white streaks across his forehead and down his cheeks. He wore a deep purple shirt, buckskin trousers, fitting tightly, fringed on the outer seam, buckskin leggings, beaded all over with blue and white beads in a beautiful design, gauntlet gloves beaded to the elbows, his hair oiled and braided in two plaits which hung below his waist in front. His saddle blanket was green felt beaded in blue and white. His saddle was of white buckskin, made like a pack saddle, with a high horn in front and in the rear.

Across the back of the horse, immediately back of the saddle was, what I would call a scarf of white buckskin, eight inches wide, and which extended down on the sides of the horse to within six inches of the ground. The end of this for over a foot was slashed into fringe. Just then we were joined by some friends, one of them who has lived at Lapwai for twelve years. One of the Indians came up; so, of course, we went outside. On our way out we passed a tent where there were eight or nine Indians, beating a large skin drum that almost filled the tent. They were sitting flat on the ground, beating it with drumsticks wrapped with cotton cloth. One of them, a big black fellow, was the leader. As they beat, they chanted the strangest, wierdest chant I ever heard. Sometimes it sounded like a bunch of little pups squealing, then it rose to a shriek, and then sank to a solemn croon, over and over again. It cannot be described, it must be heard to know what it is like. There were a lot of Indians lying on the ground behind the singers. Every now and then one of them would get up and dance around. It looked to me like they were imitating some animal, as they danced.

The war dance did not take place for two nights after the 4th; so it was well we did not spend the night in Lapwai, as we had talked of doing, for we should have had our labor for our pains.

At these dances the Indians work themselves up to a great pitch of enthusiasm; they will dance so long and violently after they are once around; that frequently they fall to the ground in exhaustion or unconsciousness. At times they work themselves into such a frenzy that they throw off all their clothing but their breechcloths and moccasins. This is toward the winding up of their dances.

They have many religious and tribal dances—that they dance on these occasions—the Sun dance, a religious dance; the Corn or Harvest dance, a tribal dance etc., are a few of the many dances that they give. They remain as long as the provisions last, and it ends with a big feast. Besides the dances they have horse races, games of chance, the Indians are great gamblers. Let on the races, sometimes a Indian will bet all he has on a favorite in a horse race; the old Indians have long pow wows (talks), while the younger men and women select their future helpmates. Many marriages follow these annual gatherings.
